

Name of Wine: Don Jacobo Rosado

Producer: Bodegas Corral

Region: Rioja Alta, Spain

Vintage: 2010

Grape Varieties: Blend of 50% Garnacha one of Spain's most widely planted red varieties, used often in blends and 50% Tempranillo Spain's principal native red grape, used in Spain's best wines, also often blended, it has long aging potential.

Grape Source:

Vineyards: 40 hectares of sustainably dry-farmed estate owned vineyards planted near Navarrete in Rioja Alta with additional vineyards leased out to experienced family growers under long term contracts.

Soil: A combination of chalky clay and iron rich alluvial soils.

Vinification:

Harvest: Hand harvested.

Maceration/Fermentation: The must is extracted via horizontal pneumatic press then chilled and allowed a short 7-8 hour maceration before the must is drawn off. It is then cold fermented for 15-25 days in stainless steel tank.

Other:

Alcohol Volume: 13.5%

Tasting Notes:

Brilliant strawberry pink color with an aromatic nose of ripe red berries, soft floral notes and a hint of muskiness. Bright raspberry on the palate with tropical fruit tones and a long savory finish. Well balanced, fresh acidity, with some weight and subtle texture.

History:

Established in 1898 by Saturnino Daroca, a returning veteran of Spain's Carlist wars. Wanting to start a new peaceful life he bought a house and wine cellar from the local monastery in Navarrete and planted vines on land he owned nearby. After he passed on his daughter and son-in-law Martín Corral took over the family business. It was their sons Gregorio and Florencio who expanded the business to the next level and reached a broader Spanish market also starting to export in the international market in the EU, US and Canada. In 1974 the winery was expanded and a new bodega was built in Navarrete. The bodega is literally backs in on the route of the Camino de Santiago. For 1,000 years Catholic pilgrims travelled along this route to reach St. James tomb in Galicia and pay their respects. In Spain the original road is known as Ruta Jacobea or Way of St. James, this is where the name Don Jacobo comes from. (John Radford, The Wines of Rioja)
